

Environment
Essentials

Landis
|Gyr+
manage energy better

Landis + Gyr is the global industry leader in metering solutions and energy measurement solutions for utilities. Landis + Gyr offers a complete portfolio of energy meters and integrated smart metering solutions, enabling utilities and end-users to make better use of scarce resources, save on operating costs and protect the environment by managing energy better.

The Current Situation

Landis + Gyr provides customers with state-of-the-art products and services through more ecological and efficient use of energy. It does this while ensuring that all activities are carried out safely as well as adhering to all necessary health and safety regulations. Landis + Gyr's management systems show that they are also committed to improving energy efficiency and environmental conservation and are ISO certified for quality and environmental processes.

The Challenge

From multi-energy metering to load management, Landis + Gyr delivers complete end-to-end solutions in more than 30 countries on all five continents.

Achieving stringent accreditation at two sites in Australia (Melbourne and Sydney), offered certain challenges. With the vast number of activities at both sites, adopting a consistent approach to understand the specific legal obligations and keeping up-to-date with regulatory changes was found to be problematic.

The Solution

In searching for systems to assist with the legal obligation element of the accreditation process, Landis + Gyr worked with Environment Essentials to implement the EnviroLaw and SafetyLaw products. Landis + Gyr receives frequent legislative updates and has access to the easy-to-understand plain-English summaries provided by EnviroLaw and SafetyLaw.

Environment Essentials continues to provide valuable support and knowledge to management and the environment and safety teams across both locations to ensure ongoing compliance of the certified systems in place.

Environment Essentials has also developed and conducted customised training packages on general safety awareness for all personnel and risk assessment activities for the selected teams. The training sessions reinforced a focus on safety and their goals of continuous improvement and building employee competencies.

“Having access to regular EnviroLaw and SafetyLaw updates saves time and enables Landis+Gyr to focus its resources on designing and delivering high quality metering solutions.”

“I was suitably impressed how Environmental Essentials were open to tailor their training material to something that would resonate closely with Landis+Gyr employees while emphasising Landis+Gyr's commitment to good environmental, health and safety practices.”

Gerard Meichan - Business Excellence Manager - Landis+Gyr
